New Board Member Ends Township School Tieup

A troublesome issue of several months standing was disposed of when the Richland township board of education last night assigned teachers to its three one room schools The chief point in dispute was settled with assignment of Miss Viola Oborn to teach at the Township House school

Although the entire board of five members voted on the question the vote of Omer Klinefelter who this week accepted a position on the board to fill the unexpired term of F E Geckler resigned really decided the question

Klinefelter heard both sides of the deadlocked board discuss the issue read and considered a petition and remonstrance on file with the board and then voted to retain Miss Oborn at the Township House school

He expressed a desire to vote in accordance with the sentiments of the majority of the districts citizens and said that the petition and remonstrance indicated that a majority favored retaining Miss Oborn at that school The petition seeking her transfer to the Klinefelter school was signed by fewer than the remonstrance petition asking that she be retained at Township House it was indicated at the meeting last night

With harmony restored in the ranks of board members the board is now awaiting the reaction of the district's residents The issue settled last night has been before the board and the entire district since teachers were hired last spring At a recent meeting of the board the township constable was present to put a stop to disturbances created by citizens attending the board session

PLATFORM IS ADOPTED BY ACCLAMATION

National Party Stand on Prohibition Given Ohio Convention O K.

NO WORD ON STATE REPEAL

Decide It Should Be Dependent on National Action. "Auction" Campaign Hit

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O Aug 20—The platform of the Ohio Democratic party was adopted by acclamation by the state convention here today No opposition to the platform as reported by Maurice Bernon of Cleveland chairman of the resolutions committee was heard

The final session of the convention was presided over by Senator Robert J Bulkley of Cleveland Only about half the delegates were in the hall when he rapped for order and the gallery crowd was small

The delegates cheered when Bernon mentioned the names of Roosevelt and Garner the national standard bearers and White and Bulkley leaders on the Ohio ticket Additional cheers came when the resolutions committee chairman read that part of the state platform indorsing the national platform and the section opposing the "auction block" method of campaign expenditures

The convention adjourned a few minutes after 11 30 a m

The delegates state and national Democratic party leaders and thousands of visitors were to gather at the Columbus American Association baseball park late today to hear an address by Governor Franklin D Roosevelt of New York

Repeal of state prohibition so far as Ohio Democrats are concerned is dependent upon and must await repeal of national prohibition as a result of today's approval of the platform as recommended by its resolutions committee

The state platform convention got under way last night after the executive committee met and named Charles Sawyer Cincinnati attorney as candidate for lieutenant governor This appointment was made necessary by the withdrawal of Lt Gov William G Pickrel as a candidate for reelection

Bulkley and White Speak

Senator Bulkley opened his address with a tribute to Governor White and then voiced a ringing denunciation of the Republican national administration declaring that party's plank on prohibition and the attitude of President Hoover were designed to win the votes of both wets and drys

Governor White said he stood "upon the national and state platforms and declared he would make economy in government the chief issue of his campaign for re-election

The platform drafters under the guiding hand of State Chairman Henry G Brunner showed little hesitancy last night in spiking an attempt to procure a declaration favoring repeal of the two state prohibition laws the Miller and Crabbe acts as well as a specific declaration favoring repeal of national prohibition

The only reference to prohibition contained in the platform which the convention was asked to adopt is an indirect one adopting the national platform in its entirety The pronouncement says "As delegates representing Ohio Democrats in convention assembled we adopt the national platform in its entirety"

Rejected Proposal

The rejected plank read "We not only favor repeal of the Eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act but also repeal of the Miller and Crabbe acts" It was proposed by A L Carle of Rawsons

Stephen M Young of Cleveland candidate for congressman at large, supported Carle's proposal de-

Protest Machinery Ban in Ohio Road Contracts

Marion Industrial Interests Will Carry Objections of Policy to Governor White; Letter Sent to C. of C.

A protest of Marion Industrial interests against the policy of the state highway department in prohibiting the use of machinery on highway projects was filed today with the Ohio Chamber of Commerce The letter was to be given to Governor George White by the state chamber

In a letter to P B McMillin of Mt Gilead president of the Ohio Chamber of Commerce Frank D Glover of Marion president of the Commercial Steel Castings Co pointed out that the use of power shovels and concreting machinery was prohibited on a number of highway projects on which bids were to be opened today

In the letter Glover takes exception to the department's policy of barring machinery in order to alleviate the unemployment situation by increasing the use of hand labor He pointed out that while this method may provide work for persons in the immediate vicinity of the improvement it will work an additional hardship on manufacturing communities dependent on the production of new machinery and repair parts for machinery already in use

Protest Planned

Plans were being made today by representatives of the Marion Chamber of Commerce and Marion business men to go before Governor White with a formal protest of the highway department's policy

Glover's letter to McMillin follows

Please refer to the proposed highway improvements for contract letting Aug 19 20 a copy of which I am enclosing

You will find that in a number of projects the specifications state that hand labor only shall be used and others specify that power shovels and brick conveyors are not permitted to be used Your attention is called to the following items

(Mr Glover's letter here listed a number of improvement projects for which bids were to be opened today None of these were located in Mar-

B O Skinner, Ohio Director of Education Rules on Salary Question.

As a result of a ruling by B O Skinner state director of education to the effect that all teachers in state aid schools will be entitled to pay for the full term regardless of the length of time the school operates teachers in the school at Meeker were assured of pay for a full term even though the length of time the school will be able to operate may be reduced

Meeker D T Mills county school superintendent said this morning is the only state aid school in the county He also said present plans called for the operating of the school for a nine month period

The state director of education in a statement given to the Associated Press yesterday said teachers employed in state aid schools of Ohio will be entitled to salaries for eight or nine months regardless of the length of the school term

Contracts for the coming year have been written on a yearly basis and even though funds should not be available to operate the schools more than six months teachers will legally have due them salaries for eight or nine months according to their contracts Skinner said Many districts other than those receiving state aid are faced with the same situation he said

How the state will obtain money to pay the teachers after the schools have closed was puzzling the director today and he said it may be necessary for the teachers to go to court to obtain payment

On his journey through the Buckeye state the governor was greeted by crowds at every stop

Two hundred guests were invited to a luncheon arranged by William A Julian national committeeman from Ohio

After a few minutes privacy in his hotel rooms, interrupted however by the visits of county delegates, Mr Roosevelt attended the luncheon

As he entered the dining hall the orchestra played "Anchors Aweigh," the governor smiling his appreciation and bowed a greeting to the leader. He came to with his son, James

At the guest of honor table, Mr. Roosevelt sat between Mr and Mrs Julian. Baker was seated three places from the standard bearer, Senator Bulkley, Governor White, his daughter, Mary, the "first lady" of the Buckeye state, National Committee Chairman Farley, and Chairman Henry G. Brunner of the Ohio executive committee were also at the table,

Notified

(With Rogers Speaks)

SANTA BARBARA, Calif., Aug 20 — The notification committee that have been around notifying everybody that something has happened to 'em well they finally caught up with my old "Injun" friend, Charley Curtis, yesterday. And they warned him that there was a possibility that he would have to listen to four more years of the same speeches that he had heard for the last four.

Mr Curtis kinder stalled a Ford right in the middle of the road on prohibition That is going to bring up a kind of curious situation, as he is the only presidential, or vice-presidential, candidate that is dry So the drys here finally got somebody to go to at last.

"Keep the country dry with Curtis in the vice presidency."

THAT proposal, made by Nan Forsyth to Jerrie Weare, a wealthy stranger was accepted, and, odd though it may seem, was the beginning of an unusual situation which culminated in love and happiness. Weare needed a bride on 24 hours notice. Nan wanted the money, not for herself, but for her sister Thus it contracted the opening setting for "Nothing Venture," an intensely interesting novel by Patricia Wentworth, popular author which is to appear in The Star in serial form Be sure to read this story of amusing complications. It vibrates with fascinating excitement and suspense from start to finish.

BRITISH TARIFF CAUSES SLUMP

Grain Values Drop as 6-Cent Tax Is Placed on Wheat by England.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Aug 20—Grain values went lower early today, affected by announcements of 6 cents a bushel British tariff preference for Canadian and Australian wheat.

The action of the economic conference in Ottawa was construed in grain circles as calculated to revolutionize trade relations between the United States and the United Kingdom.

Opening ¼@¾ cent lower, wheat afterward sagged further. Corn started ¼@¾ cent off and continued to recede.

One large grain trader issued a statement saying it had been hoped that the termination of the United States farm board stabilization operations and the disposal of the board's accumulated wheat stock, the United States might regain its former share of the English market. A further consequence asserted was that Great Britain had agreed to take steps to shut out wheat shipped through any bounty-fed program in the country of production, an agreement apparently aimed at this country and Russia.

Lowest prices for wheat here since Aug 3 were reached before downturns were checked. For the first time since that date, September wheat contracts in Chicago dropped to below 50 cents a bushel. At least temporarily the market showed little power to rally. Corn and oats fell with wheat, all deliveries of oats outdoing the season's previous bottom figures.

Provisions eased with grains.

Book Reviews

TURNING NEW PAGES

WITH EDNA B. DUTTON

POLITICS and the running of a small county newspaper played no small part in the lives of the villagers on Cape Cod back in the 70's as the reader will discover after reading Joseph C. Lincoln's delightful novel, "Head Tide." Parties had their "bosses" in those good old days and the owner of a newspaper could fall in line or fight he was out just as he pleased.

Franklin Cobb found this out and more too almost as soon as he set foot in Wellmouth to take over the newspaper he inherited unexpectedly from his uncle. The town was divided. Four Corners where lived the old conservatives led by Judge Dean and Captain Bates and the South Side harbored the newer element.

The death of Beriah Higham left the "Eagle" in sole charge of Elisha Dodson, his faithful helper for many years. The future of the paper was of great concern to Elisha and there was a possibility of his life's dream coming true when Judge Dean informed him that home capital would be invested in the paper, providing the new owner wished to sell, and that Elisha might be the editor.

It is at Elisha's house that Franklin Cobb makes his home upon his arrival at Four Corners and when things settle down it requires very little persuasion on the part of Elisha and his daughter Helen to keep him there. The $5,000 offered by the "home capital" for the Eagle looks pretty good to Cobb until he hears a few things and then, with Elisha as editor, he decides to keep it himself. Then, there is Victoria Bates who is easy to look at and most certainly interested in the new owner of the paper.

Political interest centers around the race for district representative and Carmi Blake of the South Side. A prosperous sea captain who is more than interested in Helen Dodson, in all appearances meets with the approval of the Four Corners crowd as well as his home section. The Eagle's support is pledged to Blake and when through trickery Judge Bates is nominated Cobb elects to stick to his guns.

Blake is put into the race on an independent ticket and when the clouds clear away is a successful candidate. He wins the hearts of his supporters and the reader as well when he refuses to tell why he will not pledge himself to a harbor improvement project sponsored by a group interested more in their own gain than the town's improvement.

Judge Bates is still the big man of the town when, after the election, he calls at the office of the Eagle for a talk with Cobb, but the reader's feelings still remain cool towards Judge Dean, a crafty, self-centered man who tries to carry water on both shoulders. Dodson's devotion to his daughter and the Eagle, the two most important things in the world to outstanding throughout the story. The reader is highly entertained with the fight between the South Side and the Four Corners crowd as to which one will fire off the cannon on the Fourth of July and it is the theft of the cannon which brings about the meeting between Cobb and Victoria Bates.

The story is not without its love angle and the dashing Victoria Bates brings to the modest little village a bit of high society as she flits from home to college, abroad and home again.

The author has given his readers an interesting tale of politics and plans and an entertaining novel which promises to become a favorite.

Publishers Announce New Barrie Story

THE first new Barrie story in several years will be published early in November by Charles Scribner's Sons and is entitled "Farewell, Miss Julie Logan." In the pages from the diary of Adam Tushiram minister of a tiny kirk in a moorbound Scottish glen, the author tells a tale with all the lovableness and eerie charm of such Barrie masterpieces as "Mary Rose" and "Dear Brutus." Miss Julie Logan that "long stalk of loveliness" who spoke with such "a beloved hush! must that she should say everything twice," will capture the reader's heart quite as quickly as she does that of the serious-minded dominie. That there is great doubt as to her reality even in the story only makes her elusive personality more charming. How Adam Yestreen first met her, how at midnight of the last day of the year he saw her queen it over the wraiths of old Jacobite chieftains in the dusty ballroom of the Great House, how he carried her across the snow-swollen burn, and how he lost her in midstream and what happened to him in the same spot a quarter century later makes a "long short story."

GEORGE BANCROFT'S "LADY AND GENT" TO OPEN PALACE WEEK

George Bancroft Dean.

Considered George Bancroft's best picture break in a long time, "Lady and Gent," will show at the Palace Sunday and Monday, in leading roles are Wynne Gibson, who did a real job of acting in "The Strange Case of Clara Dean," Joyce Compton, Charles Starrett, John Wayne and James Gleason.

The story was written especially for Bancroft by Grover Jones and William Slavens McNutt. And after Bancroft finished work on this picture he walked out of the studio and refused to do another role for the company. He's been at swords-points with his studio for a year or more.

"Everyone Knows It But You" is the title of the new popular song Wynne Gibson sings in her role of night club hostess. The ballad was written especially for the picture.

Janet Gaynor

Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell refused to do another sugary sweetheart picture so the producers selected Frank Craven's stage success, "The First Year," as an auspicious vehicle for their first venture into the realms of drama. The picture opens Sunday at the Ohio to play four days. The picture has been an outstanding box-office attraction every place it has shown.

But the first year is a comedy, with its touches of tears, of the trials and tribulations of every young bride and groom in their first year of marriage. Minna Gombell has an important supporting role.

The short subject on the Ohio program will be a Ruth Etting story with song, "A Mail Bride," in which the charming Miss Etting will sing "Can't We Talk It Over," "Auf Wiedersehen" and "When We're Alone."

MARION PAINT CO., EIGHT YEARS IN CITY, CARRIES FULL DEAN & BARRY LINE OF PRODUCTS EXCLUSIVELY

From the very day the Marion Paint Co. started in Marion eight years ago the business has been a success and its products are demanded by home and property owners over a wide territory.

Every product sold by The Marion Paint Co. is nationally renowned for high quality as well as reasonable price.

Leonard Young manager of The Marion Paint Co. says: One of the reasons for our rapid and successful growth in Marion is that we handle exclusively a very fine brand of house paint made by Dean & Barry.

Dean & Barry house paints are not a new and untried experiment. They have given complete satisfaction for more than a quarter of a century thus proving themselves worthy to be called 'high grade.'

They are made from strictly pure lead pure linseed oil pure tinting colors and just enough zinc oxide and inerts to make the paint tough and durable and to keep the lead from chalking.

The success of D & B high grade paints lies in its being ground and reground in giant stone mills and then thoroughly mixed by powerful machinery thus assuring fineness and uniformity of color that can not be obtained through hand mixing. The extreme fineness of this grinding assures that more inferior oil is covered to the gallon.

The real cost of painting depends not upon how much paint costs a gallon but how long that paint lasts after it is applied.

As it costs as much to apply cheap paint as it does paint of proven quality it is real economy to use the best paint obtainable.

The Marion Paint Co. offers to the public a variety of paint called Lac Paint which is exceptional for its use in finishing walls furniture and woodwork.

Lac Paint gives a beautiful semi gloss finish is furnished in 32 shades also in black and white. It is suitable for interior work such as kitchen walls and ceilings bath rooms furniture baby carriages linoleum picture frames lamp shades toys kitchen cabinets radiators walls ceilings and furniture of office buildings. It works and flows freely under the brush and yet dries in five to six hours.

The Marion Paint Co. also carries a complete line of wallpaper and paint brushes supplies. Ask a painter to call and show you their sample books. They're sure to have a pattern to suit your taste at a price you will gladly pay.

Whenever your need paint or paint brushes don't forget the Marion Paint Co. They can supply all your needs and at a reasonable price.

HERE ARE IMPORTANT PAINT POINTERS

Paint applied on poor cheap lumber full of moisture sap or pitch can only result in the paint scaling or peeling off. No paint will stick to such surfaces.

The surface should be clean and free from grease soot or dirt. In no case apply paint over a previously painted surface on which the old paint is loose or cracked. Remove the old paint with a wire brush or a paint burner.

Be sure the surface is perfectly dry before painting. Paint applied in damp weather or upon damp surfaces is likely to crack peel chip or blister.

Don't use a poor priming coat like ochre or cheap paint. The priming coat like the foundation of your house must be sure or the succeeding coats will not hold.

Always use D & B Paint for your priming coat—it's true economy.

Don't use cheap oils for thinning use pure raw linseed oil which is the life of the paint.

Paint must be well brushed out not flowed on like varnish.

One gallon of High Grade Liquid Paint will cover 300 to 350 square feet two coats according to the condition of the surface to be painted. If smooth and dry it will cover more if rough and porous it will cover less.

DEMOCRATS APPROVE STATE PLATFORM

National Party Stand on Prohibition Given Ohio Convention O K.

lieving that the tentative platform itself which had been prepared by Governor George White's advisers and party leaders did not mention prohibition and unemployment two things which the people are talking about more than anything else

Mrs William H Alexander of Columbus prohibition leader who claimed to represent women's clubs and organizations numbering 10 000 000 in the nation opposed a repeal declaration

The committee also rejected almost unanimously planks proffered by Charles V Truax of Akron candidate for congress many urge favoring a moratorium for farmers and home owners on secured real estate loans eliminations of all penalties on delinquent taxes incurred prior to last January a system of old age pensions and immediate payment of the soldier bonus

Others Turned Down

The committee also rejected a plank proposed by Carls favoring creation of a state racing commission and legalization of wagering at race tracks as well as a proposal favoring court appeals in occupational disease claims before the state industrial commission A proposal by Leroy Marceau of Niles favoring legislation creating power districts in rural territory to manufacture and distribute electric current lost for want of a second

The platform declares it to be the conviction of Democracy that only by entrusting Governor Franklin D Roosevelt and John N Garner with the obligations of leadership and electing a Democratic congress can these essential purposes be speedily realized

1—Permanent restoration of public confidence

2—Recovery from the disastrous results of policies long pursued in federal government

3—Return to the course of progress and domestic happiness from which inept guidance has swerved the nation.

While criticising the Republican national administration the platform makes no specific mention of President Hoover

Under the heading the issue and a challenge the platform declares the paramount issue of the state campaign to be economy in government and challenges the Republicans to meet it with mere promises of economy against which we offer a record of economy accomplished It then recites economies claimed for Governor White's administration and pledges continuance of the methods pursued by him in bringing them about

Await G O P Record

Soliciting favorable judgment upon it at the polls from all citizens regardless of political affiliation the instrument says we remind them that two years of Republican administration in Ohio and twelve years in the nation set new records for extravagance and deficits

Among things favored are legislation as may be required to strengthen state supervision of banking and building and loan operations legislation necessary to enable communities to borrow federal funds for such purposes as elimination of hoarding evils ratification of the federal "lame duck" amendment long term planning of highway construction lightening the burden of road costs borne by the property owner revision of the tax laws to cure any inequitable provisions legislation to sanction cooperative farm credit systems adoption of a program to be based on surveys now in progress that will insure adequate pay for school teachers and guarantee equal opportunity of all school children development of a program based on surveys now in progress to conserve natural resources guard against floods and droughts and continuity in a conservation policy that will develop wild life and afford sportsmen the greatest possible advantage in return for license fees and due regard for rights of farm owners.

Only two things were specifically opposed. These were large expenditures in behalf of candidates and any increase in taxes on the home owners and farmers to finance existing governmental functions, forming chiefly at issue in the governorship contest, the platform took opposed "intermeddling of political contests by outside, black machine through newspaper campaign appeals, such as marked the recent Ohio primary in which Republican machine [illegible]

"On the above items for movement of earth the use of power shovels is prohibited These items I picked up as I glanced through the book. There are probably a number of others which I may have overlooked It would seem that if the policy is good in eliminating this machinery in the handling of this material they should also eliminate the use of trucks and go back to teams or wheelbarrows

The state highway department has evidently overlooked the labor situation in its broadest sense These highway projects give employment to the immediate surrounding district but allows no employment in the manufacturing districts in the production principals of new machinery and the repair parts for machines already built

Depends on Factories

"A community such as Marion for instance is dependent upon the labor employed in the manufacture of power shovels With the elimination of wages paid to employes in the manufacturing this effects practically every one in the community If this policy is further pursued it will cause financial distress to the merchants lawyers doctors and others dependent upon manufacturing employment It would be much better for the money paid out in highway improvements to be allowed to go through the regular channels without favoring one class at the expense of the other

All of this labor must necessarily be paid from taxation of some kind and when you think of the man who is struggling along attempting to retain his home property and take care of his family on the few odd jobs he can pick up here and there this same man in return must not only take care of himself but take care of the others through additional taxation whose labor is used in such projects as these There is no advantage to workmen in stipulating hand labor and prohibiting the use of machinery on these projects

All will agree that the use of so-called labor saving machinery more properly called modern tools decreases the cost of building a mile of road as compared with hand labor Why not use the money saved by using these modern improved tools to build additional miles of roads? Ohio still has plenty of roads that need improving

Will Give More Miles

By this plan we would secure additional miles of improved roads the same amount would be paid out for common labor manufacturing employes would have employment in building machinery stone quarry and cement mill employes would have additional employment the employes of manufacturing plants supplying machinery to other manufacturers would be employed and in the end the tax payers of Ohio would have more miles of roads to show for the money expended

If the use of machinery is the cause of the present condition of labor in this country then why should not the Chinese and Hindus be rich as they employ no machinery?

You will also note that the contractors must appeal to the County Relief Committee for employes preference given to ex service men with dependents This is covered in the printed red insert and applied on all proposal forms for federal aid projects and combination federal and state aid projects This will force those men who have heretofore been able to maintain their families by odd jobs to apply for relief in order to secure employment

Ohio would probably be far better off to refuse federal aid on some of these roads than to attempt to carry out the provisions of this act

Committing—Trusting

A SERMONETTE

BY REV. KARL W. PATOW,
Pastor, The Prospect Street M. E. Church.

Commit thy way unto the Lord, trust also in Him; and He shall bring it to pass." Psalm 37:5.

THIS verse from the Psalms speaks of the kind of prayer that seems appropriate for the times in which we live. It involves a definite transaction with God. Generalities are avoided. Time is saved and results are obtained. Three important things should be noticed: "Commit, trust, and He worketh."

To commit anything fully to God is nothing less than a definite business transaction with God. It avoids the general and vague petitions of prayer which have no value and serve no purpose. This is illustrated by a farmer who meant to be a Christian, but who was constantly troubled with uncertainty and doubting in the matter. Then one morning at 10 o'clock, while ploughing in a field he stopped his team, drove a stake into the ground, and then and there definitely committed himself to God, asked for the forgiveness of sins, and definitely received an inner certainty of his acceptance with God. Thereafter he was often heard to say: "Then, on that spot, I made a definite transaction with God when I committed myself to God; and this definiteness and decision lifted me above all doubts and uncertainty, and brought peace and joy and blessing to my soul." Many are in doubt because of their lack of definiteness in dealing with God.

Now, it is one thing to bring a matter to God in prayer, and to commit it to Him, but it is another thing to leave it there and trust Him to work it out for me. It is one thing to commit yourself to the Lord, it is another to trust Him then to work in you that which is well-pleasing in His sight. Commit has the idea not only of bringing the matter to God in prayer, but also of leaving it there. This matter of bringing it to God is hard enough, but to leave it there is harder. Yet it is necessary to leave it with Him and trust Him if He is to work.

Suppose you have something wrong with your watch. You take it to the watchmaker and ask him if he can repair it. He examines it and says "Yes." But if you want it repaired you must leave it with the watchmaker and trust him to work on it—the thing that must be done to make it what it ought to be.

Can we not commit ourselves to God, and trust Him to work in us and for us that which needs to be done to make us what we ought to be? Why not have as much confidence in God as in a watchmaker? Many of our prayers in life are not answered because we have not learned how to commit to God.

My Beauty Hint

BY HELEN VINSON

LOVELY hands are a perfect index to good breeding, character and careful grooming. They can't be kept lovely if there is the slightest tendency of the nails to split or crack.

I soak my fingertips nightly in hot oil—preferably, olive oil as hot as my skin will stand. I hold my fingers in 10 minutes or longer.

Then, drying the hands on a soft towel without washing off the oil, I find the cuticle soft, the nails less brittle.

Just Things

BY EDNA S. DUTTON

Sure Signs

MORE signs of fall: school books for sale in windows; kiddies leaving their cards at the library in preparation for a last-minute vacation out of town or a real play time at home; white shoes with that run-down-at-the-heel look; county fair talk; snappy new fall togs in a tantalizing display in the store windows; corn roasts for something different in picnic fare; vacation yarns and the calendar.

Balloonists

JUST what do folks think about that go up in the air in balloons? Of course we know what occupied Mr. Pierard's thoughts for he was exploring "air oceans." Not that so many go up any more, but if they did, just what would they be pondering about? Maybe it was a delusion on our part and maybe it was just a "front" the performer put on until he was out of vision of that sea of open-mouthed spectators but our recollection of those old streets fair thrillers paints them as being as cool as the much-quoted cucumber. Of course, if one chooses to be a balloonist, the show must go on and it would be rather foolish to change one's mind after once they got started.

Nerve or What?

HOSTESSES here their feelings tried beyond the limit at times and how they maintain their outward calm and pellicense is beyond us. We know one who smiled in the most charming way when two guests making up a table of bridge romped through the hand playing no trumps when hearts had the call. And imagine these two, before the evening was finished, had nerve enough to announce their intention of joining a contract bridge club.

Community Enterprise.

South Side residents of Marion are setting an admirable example of community spirit that is worthy of emulation in other localities.

Working in cooperation with members of the city park commission, the South Siders are making improvements at McKinley park which are adding to its merits as an ideal spot for persons seeking rest and recreation.

Virtually ever since Marion's city council purchased land for three public parks something like three decades ago, the task of keeping the properties in suitable condition has been almost a constant problem to officials and citizens. Appropriations for park improvements and upkeep never have been exceptionally generous and especially in the last few years funds have fallen considerably short of actual needs. Fortunately the city has a park commission made up of citizens who are sufficiently interested in their job to give it liberal time and attention and through their efforts the parks have been kept in creditable condition.

It would be a long story, although one that should be known to all Marion citizens, to tell everything the park board has done and is doing to care for this important community property so that it may be of greatest possible value and use to the public and also may be exhibited to visitors without the necessity of apology. It is a story of accomplishment achieved in spite of meager financial resources. These board members, who draw no pay for their services, have put in many hours of thought and work in devising and directing improvement and maintenance programs that have accomplished amazing results.

Probably the most noticeable achievement has been at McKinley park. It is altogether likely that this is due in a considerable measure to the interest taken by residents of that section of the city and the support they have given to improvement projects, especially this summer.

The South Side is certain to profit materially from its enterprise, although of course the people there are not actuated by thoughts of gain. Their purpose is to have a place where they and their families may assemble for wholesome and healthful outdoor enjoyment. But the fact remains that an attractive park, with well-kept drives and grounds provided with equipment for the comfort, convenience and entertainment of both adults and children, will not only add to the pleasure of living in that section of the city but will also add to the market value of residence properties located there.

Romance and Science.

Up to the edge of that great void where the earth's atmosphere ends and the unknown fields of infinity begin scars a stooped, bespectacled professor. It is the kind of a journey of which Jules Verne wrote such fascinating fiction and which romanticists use as the subject for their dreams. Up where the stars shine with noonday brilliance; nearer the sun and moon than any living earthly thing has ever gone; up where he and his companion were the only living objects in the midst of lifeless emptiness.

And in all this journey, the most romantic and adventuresome ever taken by any man, Professor Auguste Piccard spent his amazing hours measuring the intensity of the cosmic ray without the interference of terrestial atmosphere.

Carrying with him in the aluminum ball in which he sealed himself enough of earth's atmosphere to maintain life for the few hours which the trip required, he soared away into the land of dreams leaving the clouds so far behind that they were forgotten. Of the surroundings which he left behind he found nothing excepting cold. Busy with his instruments, he made the recordings for which the trip was planned and when this was over he returned to a safe landing.

It was a magnificently successful trip, perfectly planned and capably executed. Professor Piccard's discoveries may be of untold benefit to scientists.

One feels the wish, however, that in the shining globe had been an idealist, a romancer, a dreamer. To leave the earth behind and return to it again is an adventure worth much more than a mere scientific record. It can scarcely be expected of Professor Piccard that he should have both the scholarly interest of the scientist and the descriptive powers of a great writer. By going twice into the stratosphere, however, he has proved that the trip may be accomplished by one who has the daring and imagination to attempt it. In the future not even the distant edge of nothingness will be overlooked by human visitors, for such a glorious adventure will call others to follow in the flight of the Belgian investigator.

Inventors now talk of rocket ships which would start to use their power where Prof Piccard ended his flight and which would go still farther into the void. There are no places left on the earth's surface for original explorations but in the space between the earth and the stars there is immeasurable vacancy which this Belgian balloonist reached but did not enter and even though more may find the means of passing farther and returning again to earth, he has at least, brought a measure of calmness and reality into fantastic dreams. He has brought the people of the world into closer touch with that infinity through which they fly at great speed among the suns and stars which dwarf it so. Professor Piccard's flight dwarfs the balloon ascensions of the Montgolfier brothers who rose to a height of 500 feet just 150 years ago in the fabric bag filled with the smoke from a burning heap of straw.

Campaign Talking.

"As, talking I may do probably will be too much," says Speaker John N. Garner, Democratic vice presidential nominee. This deserves a place among the historical statements of all political annals. Few candidates have ever said anything which meets with more universal approval.

Mr. Garner was speaking of plans for the forthcoming campaign. He has just left the party headquarters in New York after a consultation with the Democratic strategists.

It was his popularity in the West which brought about Mr. Garner's nomination. That great voting belt west of the Mississippi has a strong geographical consciousness. With a Republican ticket which carries a son of the West in each of its major positions the Democrats needed a westerner to balance New York's governor and Mr. Garner was a logical choice.

It was a selection not entirely displeasing to many Republicans. The homespun Texan has said and done many things which offer targets for attack. His attempts to force through the last session of congress a relief bill in which able economists found dangerous features is the most recent expression which will be attacked during the campaign.

Mr. Garner has a habit of speaking his mind and saying unexpected things. "Unless some great mistake is made, we'll win in November," he tells newspapermen, estimating a Democratic victory by a vote of from 6,000,000 to 10,000,000. The rest of his statement indicates that Mr. Garner does not wish to make any of these "mistakes." He says, however, that he will go on tour for the party if the committee insists. In that event, any mistakes will be on the shoulders of some one other than the sturdy warrior of Red River.

The Home Loan Bank.

The Federal Home Loan bank, although it has authority to do so, does not plan to enter the business of making loans direct to individual property owners but will act, instead, as a reserve through which banks and building and loan companies may liquefy their sound mortgage notes.

Franklin W. Fort, chairman of the board for the government's newest financial agency, has just given the first official statement concerning the purposes and intentions of the bank and it sounds logical and workable.

Virtually every institution in the country which loans on notes secured by real estate mortgages finds itself with a large amount of this paper which is safe and sound but not liquid. These long-time notes, retired by small payments over a long period of years are not subject to immediate call.

In normal times these loan institutions received deposits from their customers on which they paid interest of four to five per cent. The money was then loaned to home-owners or home-builders at from six to seven per cent. The difference in interest rate represented the profit to the company for the service it furnished.

A comparatively small amount of immediate cash was carried because withdrawals were small. Money likely to be withdrawn quickly and in large amounts was handled through commercial banks which paid a lower rate of interest or none at all as in the case of checking accounts. Returns to the building and loan company through the repayment of loans were sufficient to meet all withdrawal demands and provided additional money for reinvestment.

Depression changed all this. Depositors, finding their other income curtailed, sought to withdraw their money for their household or business needs. These withdrawals, coming faster than the repayments of loans to the bank's borrowers, depleted the ready cash and furnished the necessity for a rule to general operation throughout the country restricting withdrawals to meager monthly amounts and, in some cases, to none at all.

At the time the companies have been holding conservative mortgages good for more than the amount of the deposits. The Home Loan Bank will relieve this situation by taking over some of these mortgages from local banking concerns, thus making cash available for new loans. It is especially interested in making money available for new construction with its consequent benefits through increased employment and in loans for repairs and tax payments to prevent deterioration of property and foreclosure.

The building and loan companies, naturally, desire to make these loans, for in this business lies their profits and the new federal bank makes this possible by providing the money, accepting as security some of the mortgages which the companies hold and which will be paid off, in due time, by the monthly amortization.

Thousands of property owners already have written to the Home Loan bank seeking aid. They are being referred back to the banks and building and loan companies of their communities to which the government now affords the means of extending this service in proper cases.

Comment of the Press

"FRIENDS OF THE PEOPLE"

It is strange how self-appointed liberators of the people are able to build up their own egos with far greater success than promote the welfare of their followers. Just such a case is that of W. H. "Gene" Harvey, veteran reformer, and Rev. James R. Cox, a Pittsburgh priest. Meeting together at St. Louis to form a third party, they had few followers at best. Then the rival ambitions of two leaders led to a split. The possible usefulness of the entire movement, dubious at best, is thus reduced further.

Minor parties in America invariably center about personalities, rather than principles or party organizations. As a result, there is less of a check on the personal ambitions and whims of the leaders. There is likewise less devotion to the real interests of the people than in the larger parties, which depend on vast numbers of people for their existence.

Both Harvey and Cox are striving to lay the cornerstone of third-party groups, instead of hoping to unify the forces of the campaign and hold the ideal frame of mind to the larger parties which can be of real service to them. It seems unlikely, however that any large number of persons will be misled by the vain shadows of Father Cox or the utopian ambitions of Gene Harvey. Both these "pied dental pipers" are destined for defeat because they could not even play the first few of many tunes to the accompaniment when they met in the middle.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Daily Guide to Health

BY DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND.

Arthritis Pains Leave When Infection Is Removed.

Arthritis, one of the oldest diseases known to mankind, has been regarded as incurable. It is still believed by many to be incurable, but when the disease is properly treated, complete cure and relief can be obtained in most cases.

Persistent inflammation involving the joints of the body is usually spoken of as arthritis. There are various forms and in each certain changes take place in the affected joint. These may involve the lining of the joint, the bones of the joint or the structure around the joint.

The disease is usually met between the ages of twenty and forty. It may come on suddenly, but in most cases is slow in its progress.

The most common cause of arthritis is some sore of infection of the joints. This may come from what is called a "focal infection" which may exist anywhere in the body.

By focal infection is meant a localized infection, and this may be in the teeth, tonsils, sinuses, gall-bladder, intestine or some other point quite distant from the afflicted and painful joint.

Most cases of arthritis are successfully treated when the focal infection is located and removed, and by means of the X-ray it is now possible in most instances to determine accurately the presence or absence of focal infection.

Infected teeth are a frequent cause of arthritis. The teeth may not ache yet when X-rayed they show definite signs of decay and infection. Or the X-ray may reveal a diseased gall-bladder, infected sinuses, appendicitis or intestinal infection, and when the localized infection is removed the relief from inflamed and diseased joints is almost miraculous.

Certain forms of arthritis persist in spite of the removal of focal infections, and in these cases it is found that correction of body posture, overcoming faulty elimination and getting rid of unhygienic living conditions bring about the desired relief.

Improper food, failure to eat fresh fruits or vegetables or lack of exercise, sunshine and fresh air must be considered as additional causes of arthritis. After the focus of infection has been removed blood-building foods should be included in the diet. For this purpose liver is recommended, daily or at least every other day. The diet should be simple, nutritious and easily digested, and should contain vitamins, mineral salts and liberal amounts of protein.

Only within recent years has arthritis been successfully treated. Individuals now suffering from arthritis may obtain relief from their affliction by subjecting themselves to a complete and thorough examination. All sources of infection and disorders of the intestinal tract and digestive systems must be expected.

Do not become discouraged if you do not obtain immediate relief, for prolonged and careful treatment is necessary in some cases.

HAND MILL BUHRS FROM FLINT RIDGE.

Surveys of Flint Ridge, near Newark, O., disclosed 33 sites of former quarries, leading to speculation as to the methods of ancient peoples in removing from the bed flint-rock of sufficient proportions to be used in making many of the implements they are known to have used.

However, it is known that people of our own civilization in the early days of the state quarried flint there and out of it made articles for their own use. One difficulty that the early settlers in the west met everywhere was the lack of mills to convert their grain into flour. The first settlers of Columbus took their grain to Chillicothe to be ground.

They could not take stone of sufficient size from the ridge beds to make a water mill buhr, but they could and did make hand-mill buhrs from this flint ridge stone and many such buhrs were made on the ground for use not only in Ohio, but in places further west, pending the establishment of grist mills driven by water power which came eventually.

New York Day by Day

BY O. O. McINTYRE.

New York, Aug. 20—This is the life! In a barber chair. Saturday, "getting the works." That macaw in the cage on my left seems annoyed that I'm having a radium ray facial. If he gets too smart, I'll rise up suddenly and jump at him. One thing sure, anything they smear on my face is improvement.

I'm not for having a facial at the touch-of-the-[illegible] winding up with a grand electrical display. Buck and Yowl are there to shoot sparks into my scalp and run a current clame up and down my neck. When I get barbered I go the route and no kidding.

See those rows of perfumed bottles? Well, I've used something from each up one side and down the other. I also have a cousin who has been to every World's Fair since the Chicago one. But we are a democratic and easy to meet. No side about the Melroses. Just folks.

I wonder if my neighbor would like to hear about the time I wassed with Irene Castle? He'd never suspect it, dashed up with clay this way. But that's life—one day waltzing, the next day stuck in the mud. He's leaving. Just a close cut shave. A good pocketbook weight hurt him.

I'd like to talk privately to the barber about the methods of massaging. He's done everything to my face but haul off and kick it. I'll bet he effects bob-nails at that. Kinda silly stretching out in a chair and hiring some ruffian to slap you until your head rings.

Come to think, I don't like the glint in his eye. After all, barbers have suddenly gone mad shaving our throats. What if he should lean over and whisper: "Buddy, I'm sorry, but I've got to cut off your head"? Would I imitate a streak of lightning?

* * *

What a sight I'd look, breezing through town in this white shroud with my face all lathered and a wild man behind me waving a razor. That's enough of that. I'm going to think up something different. I have it! Some day I'm going to the Hotel Seville for a hair cut. Isn't that a one—you know, he trimmed by the Barber of Seville.

* * *

There's a new customer on my right, eyeing me in the mirror. Maybe it is some one I used to know. The next time he looks, I'll smile. He looks away. Giving me the finger, eh? You lantern-jawed hyena, you get that hoot-manny on my neck? And are you getting [illegible]. O, boy, I thought my hair was thin, but I have more fuzz on the back of my hand than you have on your entire dome. I suppose you're one of those men of big affairs. Well, you ought to see all the papers I write for. If you hadn't been so uppity, I might have put you in on a new string trick. You can ride a bicycle, no hands.

* * *

The shine boy is circling me to jockey me into a polish. He doesn't know that on Saturday everything they offer in a barber shop I take. In a minute I'm going to have Mildred dude up my nails. Mildred is the new office girl, and she thinks I'm going to a big film company. After all, I'm New York, one doesn't like to look a stranger he's a columnist. I have some shame. Mildred has nice shoulders. I'm a sucker for shoulders—them and thick ankles.

* * *

I wonder if Mildred won't like it if I sent her a big box of candy sometime. That's what I'll do. Send Mildred five pounds. I've always wanted to do something for Mildred. Let's see—$1.50 a pound for five pounds would be $7.50. After all, maybe she'd like it better if I sent her a nice new book. Mildred should read more and brighten up her mind. She's a bit thick, if you ask me. Or I could send her that trick pencil for the purse I found on the street. That's what. I'll send Mildred the pencil. But one more jab at that cuticle and I'll send her nothing. Oooch! Now Mildred has ouched herself out of a $7.50 box of candy. No, I decided against that candy. But she's lost out on a dandy pencil.

* * *

Why doesn't he hold the mirror to the back of my head? Fine view. I look rather pearl. Mildred is now gushing with one of those snappy boys with lavender suspenders. I'm glad I'm dumfied. I ought to give this barber a dollar. Still, he didn't swish the hair from under my collar. Fifty cents is plenty. He's called to the phone. I'll just lay a dime here on the shelf. Too much soaking the nuts these days anyway. — Copyright, 1932, McNaught Syndicate, Inc.

BY HELEN ROWLAND.

SYNDICATED AFFECTIONS.

Every now and then some nice, attractive man asks me to meet his sweetheart or his daughter or another "bright, interesting little woman," who is "just crazy-zee" to meet me! (Oh yeah? Crazy—like a fox!)

And, is my head red? Oh, no! I'm just delighted and happy at the joyful prospect of being looked over by the "other woman," and probably being demoted three lines lower on his telephone list!

Aren't men naive? Numberless masculine optimists have spent their days vainly trying to mix their women and their drinks without getting a headache. But not one has ever succeeded!

Every unattached man has at least two women in his life. One to appeal to his higher nature—and one to appeal to the other nine-tenths of him. Alas if he could only persuade the woman he loves and the woman who happens to be amusing him to "get together" and be good friends!

Life would be so much less complicated and so much more interesting if one woman would only be "reasonable" and the "other woman" would only be sensible, when he magnanimously suggests this little three-cornered arrangement. If they would only agree to meet, they would "just love each other"! Oh wouldn't they—just!

I haven't a doubt that Mark Anthony would have taken "Mrs. Mare" to call on Cleopatra, if he could have gotten them both to "listen to common sense." Ah! Henry VIII always let his lovers fairs lap over each other, and had his future wife playing around with his current wife before he changed partners.

But women are funny that way. You simply can't make two women see how much smoother and pleasanter and cozier everything would be if they would only "be clubby" and generously share the kisses and attentions over which they insist on fighting.

If the two women in a man's life could only establish an entente cordiale each would see how impossible it was for him to live without the other, and would cheerfully accept a community interest in his affections. Or, so he figures.

But one woman simply won't realize that the other woman is "just a good little pal." And the other woman simply won't "understand" that he is only "trying to keep the peace!" So, between the two of them, they spill the beans—and spoil everything.

Oh, well—it takes two drinks to make a man feel happy, so perhaps it takes two women to make him feel that his life is perfectly balanced. But why does he want to mix them?

That old Navy, "Here's to our wives and sweethearts! May they never meet!", was good psychology. And any man who values peace, values his service, looks forward to a long life, should adopt it—and never try to [illegible] women! — Copyright, 1932, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

OVERWORK.

When in the course of the school year a child begins to look tired, when he is irritable and "nervous," adults are likely to lay the blame upon a too strenuous curriculum.

It does not occur to them to wonder why their child finds too much a schedule which other children manage with ease.

To be sure, each child at home has different hours of sleep, different nutrition and varying demands upon his time. But the average child today is well taken care of physically. His failure is rarely the result of too little sleep, poor nutrition and too much home work.

How is it then that a child who has been physically well, who is properly cared for at home appears overworked by the ordinary demands of school?

Very often the answer is found in the fact that he is carrying an additional burden of emotional conflicts. He is depressed with feelings of guilt and inferiority. He is full of suppressed jealousy and hate. He is anxious and full of fears.

Three Teams Will Fight for League Title Next Week

PRESBYTERIANS TO PLAY LEE STREET IN INITIAL BATTLE

Championship of Industrial Loop Settled as Erie Traffic Defeats Kappas

By KARL R McFIRON

Two or three games with all the coloring of little world's series contests will be played next week as three teams fight for the championship of the first Sunday School league and the right to play in the classic of Marion's recreation ball season.

Drawings were held last night for games to decide the three way tie for first place in the first league. A modified double elimination will be used to determine the winner. The Presbyterians and Lee Street will tangle in the first game Monday night on the Steam Shovel field. The winner will meet St. Mary's Wednesday. The loser in the first game will be eliminated while if the winner is defeated by St. Mary's a third game will be played Friday night. The managers decided in other words that the champion of the league must win two games before being declared the pennant holder.

One other contest scheduled for next week will have a bearing on the pennant race. It brings together the Christian Seniors and First Reformed of the second Sunday School league. The Christians are favored to win this game although there is always a possibility of an upset. A defeat would throw them into a tie with the Epworth Seniors.

All other league championships have been decided. The Gasco nine won the Industrial title without the necessity of extra game while last night the Idle K of P team was handed the title as the Erie Traffic club defeated the second place Kappas.

Two games were played in the Industrial league last night. In a hard battle the Erie Traffic club defeated the Kappas 2 to 1. It was a scoreless game until the sixth inning when the Kappas pushed over one run. Then in the last of the seventh the Traffic club rallied and two runs gave them a victory.

M. Whitcum pitched a shutout game as the Masons defeated St. Paul 6 to 0. The victory gave the lodgemen a tie for second place with the Kappas.

OLD-TIMERS AGAIN TO PLAY BASEBALL

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI O. Aug. 20—The old timers who galloped around the bases when "pitch the umpire" was a popular cry will turn back the pages of time and loosen aching joints in one more game tomorrow.

It will be at the second reunion of players of days gone by at Redland field where Cincinnati gave the world its first professional team in 1869.

5 TEAMS BATTLE IN SOFTBALL TOURNEY SEMI-FINAL SUNDAY

Marion, Columbus, Mansfield, Fremont, Springfield To Clash at Park

With 15 of the original field of 20 teams already eliminated the Ohio championship softball tournament will swing into the semi final round of competition Sunday afternoon at Lincoln park.

The five teams remaining in the running for the title of Ohio's premier softball outfit will cross bats in a trio of conflicts Sunday that will see all but two of the teams eliminated. The two teams which survive the gruelling battles which are a certainty this week will collide one week later in the championship struggle. Sunday's three contests will go nine innings each, the first game to start promptly at 1 p. m.

Mansfield at 1 P. M.

The dizzy whirl of diamond activity will start with Fremont's brilliant Hodes-Zink company nine opposing the classy Springfield team. Both teams have ridden roughshod over all previous opposition and both are set to put up a bitter battle this week.

Medera for Springfield and Rohr of Fremont will do the flinging and that in itself assures a nip and tuck battle for both are mound stars of the first magnitude. With the brilliant support which each is bound to receive the game may take all of nine innings and possibly more to decide the winner.

At 2 p. m. the Marion Paint company conquerors of the mighty Lorain team last Sunday will see what can be done about eliminating the Columbus Safety Cab aggregation. The Marion Paint company flashed some classy play to beat Lorain and is now out to add the Safety Cabs to the list of victims.

Doc Stith will be on hand to do the tossing for the Safety Cabs. He will probably be opposed by Dale Schwaderer one of Marion's best pitchers. Stith has a much faster ball than Schwaderer but the latter has been decidedly successful in turning back out-of-town batters this season. Whoever wins the game promises to provide all kinds of flash play. Both pitchers will have strong defensive teams behind them. The Safety Cabs have a harder hitting club but will rate little or no better defensively than the Marion outfit.

Mansfield at 3 p. m.

At 3 p. m. the winner of the Springfield-Fremont conflict will don the war togs and return for a setto with the Prospect Park nine of Mansfield. Speed Gettles another of the flock of high class hurlers which the tournament has unearthed will take the hill for Mansfield.

Inasmuch as Rohr and Meder will probably do the pitching for Springfield and Fremont in the earlier game the starting opponent for Gettles is rather uncertain. However either Rohr or Meder will probably return to pitch at least part of the second game against Mansfield depending of course on whether Fremont or Springfield wins in the first conflict of the afternoon.

There is one thing certain. The two teams that come through with flying colors Sunday will have earned the right to battle for the tournament championship the following Sunday.

WILCY MOORE AGAIN FIGHTING FOR YANKS

WILCY MOORE

By The Associated Press

Back in 1927 the New York Yankees won an American league pennant with the aid of Wilcy Moore relief hurler extraordinary. He was 30 years old when the Yankees bought him but he proceeded to win 19 games and lose only seven in 1927. A few weeks ago the Yankees picked him up again from the Boston Red Sox.

He was shoved in against the Detroit Tigers yesterday his third relief job in the last five days and promptly saved the game for the Yankees. The Tigers had won the first battle 6-3. And the second was tied 5-5 when Moore went in to hold the Tigers safe in the ninth. In the last half of that frame Tony Lazzeri's single drove in the winning run. Babe Ruth clouted his thirty-first homer.

The Athletics whipped the Cleveland Indians in a double header 8-7 and 5-2 in 10 innings. Washington's Senators tripped the Chicago White Sox twice 4-3 3-1.

The Cubs dropped a 6-5 decision to the Boston Braves.

The New York Giants beat Pittsburgh 10-4 dropping the Pirates into third place. The Cardinals took a 5-4 decision over the Phillies in an 11 inning game.

RED BIRDS CONTINUE TO DROP IN LEAGUE

Ohio Teams Are Defeated in Contests at St. Paul, Minneapolis

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO Aug. 20—The neighborhood of Minnesota's twin cities—Minneapolis and St. Paul appear to be a very unlucky place for the Columbus Red Birds.

After losing to St. Paul Thursday and dropping a game farther back in the lead as Minneapolis defeated Toledo Columbus yesterday took another beating from the Saints and Minneapolis increased its margin by winning its second straight from the Mud Hens. The Saints won 4 to 2.

The bat of Art Puble again was a potent factor in Minneapolis victory. He hit two home runs and three singles in five times up. His hits slugged in four runs and he scored another pair himself as the Millers triumphed 6 to 4.

Louisville banged out a nine run lead over Milwaukee in the first three innings but the Brewers came back to squeeze out a 10 to 9 decision.

Kansas City defeated Indianapolis 7 to 6 in a night game.
